

IRG Physical Therapy - Mukilteo

Mukilteo has historic charm and beautiful coastal scenery abound. Here, the cool waters of the Puget Sound meet the shores where an icon of Snohomish county stands, the historic lighthouse that traditionally lit the path for fearless fishermen. Here, residents live amongst the world-renowned Boeing facility where commercial planes are built today. Mukilteo has been considered one of America's top 10 small cities of America, as it embodies quality and community.

At IRG Physical Therapy - Mukilteo, we know how important being part of a community is. That is why all of our therapists are board certified with the American Physical Therapy Association and many have additional training in specialized therapies. We know our patients value quality, and we prioritize this aspect as well as our commitment to care among everyone involved.
