

Malorie Larson

PT, DPT | Edmonds

"They may forget your name, but they will never forget how you made them feel."

Malorie's interest in physical therapy began with her love of soccer, and subsequent injuries because of it. Having undergone bilateral hip arthroscopies and an ACL reconstruction gives Malorie a unique perspective as a therapist. Malorie is driven to help patients understand how injuries can be prevented as well as rehabilitated. She is especially interested in the FIFA 11+ program that addresses injury risks for soccer players.

Education and Professional Memberships

- Doctorate of Physical Therapy, Mount Saint Mary's College (Los Angeles)
- Bachelor of Science, Psychology, University of Washington
- Member of the American Physical Therapy Association, Washington Chapter, Sports Section

SPECIALIZED TRAINING

- Graston
- Biomechanical Assessment
- Post-Operative Care
- Sports Injury Prevention and Rehabilitation